

Hello COBRAS members and friends,

Was out at the field last night and it is dry enough to have the fun fly. Still a few squishy spots, but overall not bad. Looks like a nice day for a fun fly tomorrow, moderate temperature and low wind. I'll have the grill fired up for hot dogs, chips and lemonade will be available as well. As usual, I will bring my generator in case anyone needs to charge batteries. I plan on being out there around 11:00. Slight chance of light showers early (between 4:00am and 7:00 am, less than a tenth of an inch if it happens at all) so that should be plenty of time for it to warm up and dry out.

Hope to see you at the field,

Phil
